Resort Management System - MVC Architecture

This diagram represents the Model-View-Controller (MVC) architecture for the Resort Management System. It clearly separates the data layer (Model), the presentation layer (View), and the application logic (Controller). Each role (Guest, Receptionist, Manager, Housekeeping) interacts through dedicated views, which communicate with controllers. Controllers then handle business logic and interact with models (database entities).